CT University Hosts 3rd Convocation Ceremony

CT University proudly hosted its 3rd Convocation Ceremony, marking a significant academic milestone as more than 1000+ graduates were conferred with degrees across diverse disciplines. The grand ceremony was a celebration of perseverance, knowledge, and the transformative power of education. The esteemed Chief Guest for the occasion was Hardeep Singh Mundian, Hon'ble Minister for Revenue, Rehabilitation and Disaster Management, Punjab. His presence added prestige to the historic gathering. The ceremony also witnessed the gracious presence of the Guest of Honor, Deepak Bali, Vice Chairman of Punjabi Culture Coordination Board, and Saravjit Kaur Manuke, MLA, Jagraon, whose presence further elevated the significance of the occasion. Distinguished dignitaries in attendance included the Chancellor S. Charanjit Singh Channi, Pro Chancellor Dr. Manbir Singh; Vice Chairman Harpreet Singh; Vice Chancellor Dr. Nitin Tandon; Pro Vice Chancellor Dr. Simranjeet Kaur Gill; Registrar Sanjay Khanduri; and Director DSW, Er. Davinder Singh, along with faculty members, proud parents, and graduating students. In his address, Chancellor S. Charanjit Singh Channi congratulated the graduates and expressed immense pride in their accomplishments. He emphasized that convocation is not just the culmination of academic years, but the beginning of a new journey filled with responsibility and opportunity. He encouraged students to remain grounded, uphold values, and contribute meaningfully to society and the nation. Addressing the gathering, Chief Guest Hardeep Singh Mundian

congratulated the graduating class and appreciated the university's commitment to quality education and holistic development. He highlighted the crucial role of youth in nation-building and urged students to use their knowledge and skills for societal progress. He also acknowledged CT University's contribution toward empowering students with practical learning and industry-oriented exposure. The atmosphere was filled with pride and emotion as graduates walked across the stage to receive their degrees, symbolizing years of dedication and hard work. The 3rd Convocation Ceremony concluded on a celebratory note, inspiring graduates to step confidently into the future as responsible professionals and global citizens.

CT Campuses Celebrate Basant Panchami and 77th Republic Day with Spiritual and Patriotic Fervor

CT Group—including its Shahpur and Maqsudan campuses, CT Public School, and CT World School—joined CT University in a grand integrated celebration of Basant Panchami and India's 77th Republic Day. The events across all campuses seamlessly blended cultural tradition with national pride, fostering an environment of spiritual awareness and constitutional respect among students and faculty. The festivities commenced with serene Saraswati Puja ceremonies at the Maqsudan and Shahpur campuses, where participants sought blessings for wisdom and academic excellence. At CT Public School, students embraced the spirit of spring through kite-flying and creative arts, symbolizing new beginnings. The transition to Republic Day was marked by high-energy cultural performances and patriotic tributes, with CT World School and CT University leading the charge. At the university, NCC cadets performed disciplined drills, while students presented skits on social responsibility and national integration, culminating in a powerful oath-taking ceremony to uphold the Constitution.

Soulful 'Daur-e-Mohabbat' Enthralls Over 1,500 Students at CT Group

Renowned Poetess Roop Kaur Kooner Delivers a Powerhouse Performance of Sufi, Poetry, and Intellect

The Sardarni Manjit Kaur Auditorium at CT Group of Institutions played host to a profound literary and musical extravaganza, "Daur-e-Mohabbat," featuring the multi-talented writer, poetess, and singer Roop Kaur Kooner. In a grand commemoration of Valentine's Week, the event transcended traditional festivities, drawing a massive audience of over 1,500 students who were treated to an impactful fusion of Sufi music, insightful Shayri, and motivational discourse. The atmosphere was one of deep intellectual engagement as Kooner, the acclaimed author of Akeeda and Miraki, utilized her unique blend of singing and poetry to explore complex themes of emotion, identity, and social reflection. The presence of esteemed leadership, including CT Group Managing Director Dr. Manbir Singh, Director of Student Welfare Davinder Singh, and Dean Student Welfare Dr. Arjan Singh, alongside various Heads of Institutes, underscored the significance of the occasion. The session was designed not only to entertain but to provide students with a roadmap for personal growth and intellectual maturity. By addressing topics of motivation and life insights, Roop Kaur Kooner's performance resonated across linguistic and cultural lines, proving that her lyrical depth and narrative strength have a universal appeal that extends far beyond her primary mediums of Punjabi and Hindi.

CT University Hosts Grand Enkindle 3.0

The Student Clubs of CT University successfully organized Enkindle Valentine's 3.0 under the aegis of the Division of Student Welfare, bringing together students from across schools for an evening filled with creativity, expression, and heartfelt celebration. Centered around the theme "Uniting Minds, Spreading Love", the event beautifully blended entertainment with purpose. The celebration featured spectacular performances in Dance, Singing, Fashion Show, and various fun-filled activities, along with a strong message of charity and togetherness under the campaign #SpreadTheLove. The presence of Pro Chancellor Dr. Manbir Singh, Vice Chancellor Dr. Nitin Tandon, Pro Vice Chancellor Dr. Simranjit Kaur Gill, and Director DSW Er. Davinder Singh added grace and encouragement to the grand celebration. Their presence motivated the students and elevated the spirit of the occasion. The competition witnessed remarkable performances from various schools, making the selection process highly competitive. The final results were announced as follows: First Position: School of Engineering and Technology, Second Position: School of Law, Third Position: School of Social Sciences and Liberal Arts.

Prestige or Purpose? Rethinking Societal Pressure in Shaping Young Careers

In today's rapidly evolving world, career decisions are increasingly influenced not only by opportunity, but by societal pressure and parental prestige. For many families, a child's profession is seen as a reflection of status, dignity, and achievement. While ambition is essential, problems arise when prestige becomes the primary motivation behind a career choice.

In today's rapidly evolving world, career decisions are increasingly influenced not only by opportunity, but by societal pressure and parental prestige. For many families, a child's profession is seen as a reflection of status, dignity, and achievement. While ambition is essential, problems arise when prestige becomes the primary motivation behind a career choice.

Society often celebrates visible success — high salaries, impressive titles, and socially admired professions. Comparisons at social gatherings and on digital platforms subtly shape expectations. Parents, driven by concern and love, may encourage paths they believe ensure security and honor. However, when these expectations override a child's natural aptitude, the consequences can be long-lasting.

Every child possesses unique behavioural tendencies. Some are analytical and logical; others are creative, empathetic, athletic, or entrepreneurial. These traits begin emerging early in life and gradually define strengths. Ignoring them in favor of societal validation can lead to dissatisfaction, lack of motivation, and emotional stress.

The real distinction lies between information and wisdom. Information tells us which careers are trending or financially rewarding. Wisdom asks whether that path aligns with the child's temperament and passion. A profession chosen for approval may bring temporary applause, but a profession chosen for alignment brings sustained fulfillment.

True parental pride should not rest on societal comparison but on a child's commitment, growth, and integrity. When students are allowed to explore their strengths and make informed choices, they develop resilience and ownership of their journey.

It is time to redefine prestige — not as conformity to societal expectations, but as the courage to nurture individuality. A fulfilled individual contributes more meaningfully to society than one who simply follows a prescribed path.

International Women's Day – Celebrating the Pride of Our Nation

On the occasion of International Women's Day, we honour the strength, leadership, and achievements of remarkable women who have shaped our nation.

- Indira Gandhi — India's first woman Prime Minister, known for her strong leadership.
- P. V. Sindhu — An Olympic medalist who has made India proud in international badminton.
- Mary Kom — A six-time world boxing champion and symbol of determination.
- Kalpana Chawla — The first woman of Indian origin in space, inspiring millions of young minds.
- Droupadi Murmu — The President of India, representing empowerment and progress.

Let us celebrate their achievements and strive to build a more equal and inclusive society.

Smart Preparation Tips for the Coming Weeks

With important academic weeks ahead, students should focus on disciplined and smart preparation.

- Set clear academic goals and create a realistic study timetable.
- Revise daily instead of last-minute preparation.
- Practice sample papers and improve time management skills.
- Clear doubts immediately by consulting teachers.
- Maintain a healthy routine with proper sleep and balanced nutrition.

Consistency, focus, and positivity are the keys to success.

CT University & CT Group of Institutions Lead Comprehensive Cancer Awareness Drive on World Cancer Day

On the occasion of World Cancer Day, CT University and the CT Group of Institutions organised a series of impactful awareness initiatives across their campuses in Ludhiana and Jalandhar, reinforcing their commitment to public health and social responsibility.

Cancer Awareness Talk – North Campus, Maqsudan

At CT Group of Institutions, North Campus, Maqsudan, a Cancer Awareness Talk was conducted in collaboration with Patel Hospital. The session was delivered by Dr. Amit Saklani, Consultant Medical Oncologist, who educated nearly 200 students about various types of cancer, their early symptoms, preventive measures, and the importance of timely screening and vaccination. The interactive discussion encouraged students to adopt healthier lifestyles and remain vigilant about early warning signs.

University-Level Awareness Campaign – Ludhiana & Jalandhar

At CT University, along with CT College of Pharmacy and CT Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences, an extensive cancer awareness campaign was organised. Activities included a walkathon and awareness rally promoting early diagnosis and preventive healthcare across campus and nearby communities.

Clinical Exposure & Expert Sessions

Students visited Mohandai Oswal Hospital to gain insights into modern oncology care. Expert talks were delivered by Dr. Vibha Chitkara from NHS Hospital on cervical cancer awareness and vaccination, and Dr. Maithili Sharma from American Oncology Institute on advancements in radiation therapy.

Creative Advocacy & Youth Engagement

Research-based poster presentations and student-created social media reels were used to spread awareness, simplify complex medical information, and engage the younger generation in meaningful health advocacy.

Through these initiatives, CT University and the CT Group of Institutions strengthened the message of early detection, prevention, and collective responsibility in the fight against cancer.

CT Group of Institutions Plays Proud Host to Punjab's Young Innovators at State-Level Science Exhibition

CT Group of Institutions, Shahpur, recently served as the vibrant hub for the State-Level Science Exhibition, a prestigious event organized in collaboration with the State Council of Educational Research and Training (SCERT), Punjab, and the School Education Department. The exhibition brought together over 450 of the brightest young scientific minds from across all 23 districts of Punjab. This significant academic gathering was held under the esteemed guidance of District Education Officer (Secondary Education) and National Awardee Dr. Gurinderjit Kaur, alongside Deputy District Education Officer (Secondary Education) and State Awardee Rajiv Joshi, whose administrative coordination ensured the event's seamless execution. The event was formally inaugurated by Dr. Gurinderjit Kaur, who performed the ceremonial ribbon-cutting to welcome the sea of innovators to the CT Group of Institutions campus. Students showcased a remarkable range of projects focused on critical global themes, including emerging technologies, health and hygiene, mathematical modelling, sustainable agriculture, waste management, green energy, and water conservation. These presentations highlighted not only the students' deep scientific understanding but also their creative approaches to solving real-world challenges. Nodal In-charge Principal Sukhdev Lal Babbar and Programme Coordinators Harjit Kumar Bawa and Haridarshan Singh oversaw the evaluation process, which featured a panel of subject experts and senior lecturers. The projects were meticulously judged on originality, practical utility, and the students' ability to confidently defend their research. During her address, Dr. Gurinderjit Kaur praised the CT Group of Institutions for providing a world-class platform and thanked the management, including Chairman S. Charanjit Singh Channi, Managing Director Dr. Manbir Singh, and Vice Chairman Harpreet Singh, for their unwavering support in hosting such an impactful state-level competition. The exhibition concluded with a grand award ceremony where Deputy District Education Officer Rajiv Joshi and special guest State Resource Person Dr. Ruminderjit Kaur motivated the participants to continue their pursuit of excellence.
